

Environmental Support

RPS is one of the world's largest and best-respected environmental consultancies and has extensive experience of providing environmental support services to the energy sector worldwide.

Our in-depth knowledge of environmental issues and the way in which they can impact the exploration for and production of energy resources makes us unique.

We utilise in-house environmental personnel, providing extensive professional expertise within RPS to provide practical environmental solutions for our clients across a broad range of upstream and downstream projects.

We have provided environmental support services to a wide range of organisations, including independent operators, oil and gas majors, national companies and government agencies and have worked extensively both onshore and offshore in a variety of different countries and environments.

What we provide

- Environmental and Social Impact Assessment - onshore and offshore
- Baseline studies and marine environmental surveys
- Environmental auditing
- Environmental management systems
- Marine mammal observers (MMOs) including passive acoustic monitoring
- IPPC, environmental permitting and certification services
- Environmental Statements
- Environmental monitoring and reporting
- Emergency planning and spill prevention/control measures
- Corporate social responsibility and sustainability services
- Environmental training
- Due diligence and environmental risk

